Dear Parents and Guardians,

It's finally feeling like fall around here at East Orient. The mornings are definitely darker and the evenings much shorter. As all of us know the main event that students and maybe parents are focusing on is our "Harvest" holiday season. As always we will be leaving it up to each individual teacher to decide on whether they'll have a harvest party in their rooms. Please look for communications from your child's teacher for related information. As we go through this season please know that costumes, are not permitted.

We will be hosting our "Principal For A Day" next week, and we are honored to host Mark Johnson. Mr. Johnson is our state representative who serves district 52. We are looking forward to showcasing our students and teachers and the great work they are involved with everyday.

Our late start data team meetings are going strong. Teachers are continuing to look at student data and working to focus on student's math skills. This is a great opportunity for staff to collaborate around students, and how we can successful grow students in the area of math.

I wanted to invite our parents to our assemblies. Our assemblies are on Wednesday mornings, and we have a row of chairs especially for you. We focus on our school spirit, positive behavior, and attendance. If you've never been to one, try to make at least one this year.

Sincerely,

Dear East Orient Families,

The cold and flu season is upon us. Please be sure to read the letter going home to families from our School Nurse, Brandie Watkins.
